Sickness & Distress:

Phoenix Bridegroom: Battles PreB ALL, original diagnosis 10-24-11 and relapse 10-21-14.

To be clear: Phoenix has relapsed, meaning, her cancer is back. The amazing hem/onc team at Memorial Hospital in South Bend acted swiftly this morning when my mom took her into the clinic for a 4-day headache. Phoenix has been airlifted to Riley Hospital due to an extremely high white count, and her oncology team is working on a treatment plan at this very minute. I will post again when I have more information. Your prayers and support are appreciated.

Update: Wednesday, Day 2: Phoenix remains her regular, smiling, sarcastic self and has spent the day watching TV, sleeping, and creating art. The doctors have been busy with constant labs, an EKG, an ultrasound of her heart, a MRI, and a spinal tap. Her white count is still at 400,000, which is what will keep her in ICU, as this is a dangerous count with many possible effects...so she is being monitored closely. John and I met with an oncology doctor this afternoon and we were informed of the plan for the days (weeks, months) ahead. Our goal is to get Phoenix into the condition that would allow her to have a stem cell transplant, which is her only option of beating this cancer. We begin an initial, 30 day, phase of chemo this evening. Our prayers will be for the cancer to respond to the chemo quickly, and for Phoenix's body to tolerate the toxicity of the medication. Your response in love, support, and prayer has been awesome and encourages us in this battle. We love you all.

Update: Friday, Day 4: Moving out of ICU. Yesterday was a tough day. Phoenix started feeling the effects of chemo, and we (mom & dad) realized that we are going down a path with a very mature, intelligent 8 year old who is asking lots of questions and communicating her feelings...and emotionally this is very difficult. Phoenix had some erratic and scary vitals in the night, and a wbc count that was increasing, which led us to a ct scan and a bedside catheter line placement at 2am. The doctors were prepping for an emergency apheresis (blood cleaning) for fear that her thick blood was about to cause a stroke. However, after a last minute cbc the docs saw a decline in the wbc, and she was able to avoid that process. Her vitals have stabilized since that time and this morning we were blessed to hear that her wbc count has amazingly decreased from 500K to 29,000. This means 2 very important things: 1. she is no longer at risk of a stroke or brain bleeds from the thick blood and 2. her cancer is responding to the chemo. Because of this, we will be able to move to the hem/onc inpatient floor today. We are taking this journey one day at a time, and so far today = progress and answered prayers. The immediate future will be chemotherapy and managing the side-effects of it. I will continue to update as things move forward. I know all of our prayers are being heard, and we appreciate all of you that continue to lift us up.

Update: Sunday, Day 6: Waiting to go home. All things considered, Phoenix is doing very well today. She has experienced some severe leg pain, dizziness, and a sore throat and jaw today. Her docs have drawn a blood culture and started an antibiotic (sore throat & pain) and fluconazole (for thrush) as precautionary measures, while they wait for labs. The doctors want to send us home as soon as they can, and it looks like that could be any day now. Of course, things can change quickly, but I am very optimistic tonight. Once we get out of the hospital she will receive a chemo infusion, in an outpatient setting, for the next 3 Wednesdays. If she is healthy enough, we hope to use Memorial Children's Pediatric Hem/Onc Clinic in South Bend. Our prayers are now for zero pain, zero nausea, and zero infection. We are very much looking forward to sleeping in our own beds and Phoenix cannot wait to see her sister and her cats. Much love and many thanks to you all.

Update: 10/29: We have been out of the hospital for a couple of days and are very happy to be home, even with all these meds. Phoenix had a clinic appointment today in South Bend and received her weekly chemo infusion. She is doing mostly very well, with moments of leg pain (from the steroids) and overall fatigue. Before we left Riley, John and I met with the transplant coordinator, and were able to get a "bigger picture" idea of what the road ahead may look like. We are hoping to wipe out all traces of leukemia with a few months of chemo, have a donor ready to rock, and then on to the marrow/stem cell transplant phase. Diva, John, and I have all given blood to be analyzed against Phoenix's, in hopes of one of us being a match for her transplant. If we do not match well enough, then the team will start looking in the donor registry, and then the cord blood registry. The hospital will NOT test any individual specifically to be her donor. However, we do encourage everyone to visit "Be The Match" at <http://bethematch.com/Support-the-Cause/Donate-bone-marrow/Join-the-marrow-registry/> and get yourself on the registry. We are feeling very optimistic about making it to transplant in a timely fashion, and welcome all of your prayers and positive thoughts to help us along! Tammy.

Update 11/3: Today has been, well, interesting/stressful/ugh. We started the day off in South Bend's clinic for labs & possibly a platelet transfusion & have ended up inpatient for a headache that comes outta nowhere at a 12 on a pain scale of 0-10. Today Phoenix has endured an MRI (came back with good results) an EKG (borderline normal) labs (nearly zero ANC) and now an EEG (results pending). My poor babe has been dealing with leg pain, and this new headache is just too much. The docs are ruling out all the major concerns & trying to find the root of it, while trying to find a pain med that helps. Tonight we pray for wisdom for the doctors and relief from pain for my girl. Amen. Thank you.

Update 11/4: Quick update: We are hoping that Phoenix will be able to be discharged tomorrow afternoon, after her chemo infusion and spinal chemo injection. She had a rough night last night, but today, after upgrading her pain medication to morphine, she has been doing much better. She has spent the day receiving a necessary blood transfusion, playing Go-Fish with a volunteer, watching TV, and resting. It seems that the cause of her pain is simply side-effects of her treatment, and unfortunately, she must remain on these meds, according to her protocol. Thank you for all of your care, concern, and prayers. Love, Tammy.

Update 11/5: We have arrived at home.

Update 11/9: After some time of reflection, I am able to share with you that we were informed last week that we do not have a match for Phoenix's bone marrow transplant within our immediate family. We will now be waiting for our team to search for a donor from the registry. Our family would like to urge you to visit Be The Match online and find out how easy it is to join this life-saving registry. Someone could be waiting for you. Join the bone marrow registry: Be The Match® is a global leader in bone marrow transplantation. We conduct research to improve transplant outcomes provide support and resources for patients, and partner with a global network.

Update 11/12: It is so hard to know how to respond to the question "How is Phoenix doing?" We have been saying "She's doing ok. She's hanging in there." This photo sums up how our days are being spent. Clinically speaking, she is doing very well...treatment is going along as planned, and her blood counts have gone up and down as they should, showing us that her body is responding to the chemo. Physically she feels exhausted and she is in pain most of the time. There is GOOD news though! We have received word from our stem cell transplant team that they have located a few possible donors for Phoenix, and will be continuing the process to narrow it down to The One. Also Phoenix was very happy to hear that one of her favorite people, Mrs. Herman, will be coming over next week to begin homebound tutoring. Tomorrow she receives chemo at the clinic and next week she will get a bone marrow aspiration to determine the amount of leukemia remaining in the marrow. We will pray for zero % leukemia present in her MRD (minimal residual disease) report. Thank you for caring about our amazing fighter.

Update 11/21: Please join us in prayer, meditation, positive thinking, and hoping...this morning, for Phoenix Faith's Bone Marrow Aspiration to show no leukemia cells. Thank you for taking a moment to lift her up this morning. Love to you all.

Update 11/22: Dear Friends, we will not know the results from Phoenix's BMA until next week some time, so stayed tuned for that. In the mean time, she has a short break from chemo over this Thanksgiving week, and begins her next chemo phase (Dec. 1st) with a 5-day inpatient infusion. Our goal this week is to hug and visit and laugh and feast with the people we love so much. I recommend that you all do the same, and be mindful of how MUCH you have to be thankful for...for we are all truly blessed. Love, Tammy.

Peter T. Zivanovich, KCT, PGC: Last month I reported that I talked to Pete and he told me that he had a heart attack and was in the hospital and was being moved to a rehabilitation center in Boynton Beach. He was doing better and expected to go home on Labor Day.

Update10/25: While Pete was in the rehabilitation center, he had another heart attack. Thankfully, he survived that and is doing better. Pete came home on the 23rd of October. Unfortunately, the story does not end there. He discovered that his condo was broken into and he was robbed of all his Masonic memorabilia and any other valuables the thieves could get their hands on, many of great sentimental and/or cost value. Pete has not been through enough with his health problems and all to have to put up with a robbery. Understandably, Pete was pretty down about the whole situation. Please keep Pete in your prayers. He can be reached at 561-734-6097. I'm sure he would like to hear from you.

Donald L. Borchert, GPE: Well after 8 hours in the ER they finally admitted Don to a room. The pain on the hip side was so bad this morning he could barely walk. Had to call an ambulance to take him to Community Hosp. Going to try and control his pain and have an orthopedic doctor look at hip. Please keep him in your prayers. And on my way home I stopped at urgent care and got told I have another kidney stone. Isn't life GRAND! Oh well got to make some lemonade.....

Update 8/29: Don is home resting.

Update 8/30: Don went back into the hospital with severe hip pain.

Update 9/1: Don was released and is now home.

Update 9/11: Here is where we are now. Saw Dr. Paprosky from Rush yesterday. He confirms hip has moved; will have to be replaced. Not sure why? Will do blood work in 10 days to see if there is infection. If not he is recommending another Doctor to do surgery. He can't do it till Dec. 3rd or Jan. 27th. TOO LONG. We see Dr. Levine on the 30th; surgery tentatively Oct. 9th at Rush in Chicago. If there is infection, it's a whole new ball game! We won't go into that till we know. By the way the fused ankle is doing well.

Update 9/30: Don update: Surgery Oct.16th to take out this hip and put in a spacer. Then 8 weeks with the spacer; 6weeks on anti-biotic, 2 off. If everything looks good, new hip goes in then; which would be 2 weeks before Christmas. Got to get lots of protein in him! Mickey.

Update 10/19: Hello everyone, Well Don's surgery went well over 4 hours. When they opened the hip it was loaded with infection, so bad it was eating the bone. So they had to put plate and screws to hold the bone together to mend. They also put a spacer in; so it will be 6 weeks of antibiotics, 2 weeks off, than next surgery to put in new hip if the infection is gone. Doctor doesn't know how he was walking on it. Let's just hope the fused ankle holds up. He'll be in hospital 3-5 days. Mickey

Update 10/21: Update: Don still at Rush. Will be transferred to Kindred (where he was for ankle) probably tomorrow. He had Pic line put in for antibiotics he has to go on. No weight bearing on right side AT ALL! That's why he can't come home yet. Keep him in your prayers, please. Mickey

Update 11/8: Thursday he got 36 staples out, 51 to go on Monday. He is now sitting on the edge of the bed for every meal. They did have him in therapy on Thursday, but let him slide on Friday and just do it all in his room. He was in the wheel chair for about an hour. As soon as we can get him to transfer easier he'll be able to come home; before the next surgery.

Update 11/30: Don update: Hello everyone hope everyone had a safe Blessed Thanksgiving! It looks like Don will be coming home Wednesday or Friday. He finishes IV antibiotic Friday, so unless I can give it to him at home it will be Friday. At least that will give him a couple of weeks at home until the next surgery on the 18th. Thanks for all the cards, calls and visits; but most of all the prayers! Mickey.

Ishmael D. Ison, Sr., PGM: I have contacted my doctor and they have postponed my hip operation until December 9, 2014. Ish.

Dick Kaufman fell and landed flat on his back and put a hole in his lower spinal cord he is much better now although they couldn't repair the hole he is getting around with a scooter and a special van he can drive while still on his scooter. Alan W Kaufman PGHP

St. Bernard de Clairvaux will confer the Degree of Past Sovereign Master degree on anyone who is entitled and has not received the degree, and would like to receive it on January 20, 2015. We will meet at the Murat Shrine Club in Indianapolis for a Social Hour at 5:30 pm order off the menu at 6:30 and hope to start the degree by 7:30. Please pass this information along to any Venerable Brother who has been installed as Sovereign Master and would like to attend. We did not plan on having the degree just before the AMD week but it worked out that way. If you are planning on going to AMD week and you want you can still attend and receive the degree here. You can then attend during the degree in Washington. I don't think there is a charge for just attending but there was a small fee when I received my degree in Washington DC. I ask that you please contact me to make a reservation for attending. For those who have not received the degree and would like the certificate I would ask for a $2.00 donation to cover the cost of the certificates I received from the Grand Secretary. We also need a count to be sure to have a room large enough to accommodate everyone. PLEASE pass the word to ALL your present and Past Sovereign Masters that they are invited to attend by giving me their reservations. (Name) Fraternaly, George A. Ingles, Jr., Secretary

November 6, 2015. RSKO – 2015 Annual Convivial – Louisville, KY

November 7, 2015. SRICF – 2015 Annual High Council Meeting – Louisville, KY

To Members of the SRICF, Since the recent release of the Program for Masonic Week, we have received a number of inquiries about the plans of the Societas Rosicruciana in Civitatibus Foederatis. After several years of discussions, among the Officers and Chief Adepts, it has been decided that our Annual Meeting would be more centrally located and at a time less susceptible to inclement weather.

The High Council will meet on November 7, 2015 at the Brown Hotel in Louisville, KY. The RSKO (Royal Society of Knights Occidental) will have their annual Convivial, the night before on November 6, 2015 at the same location. Room rates will be $129.00 with special parking rates, and free shuttle service to and from the airport. Check out the Brown Hotel at www.brownhotel.com. Those of you who miss the elegance of the Hotel Washington are going to love this Hotel. Reservations may be made by calling 888-888-5252. Tell them you are with SRICF to receive our rate or on-line by going to:
